

This manual is designed solely as a source of information and does not in any way create or imply a contract between The University of Texas at Austin Utilities and its employees. Utilities & Energy Management Department reserves the right to amend or revise its rules, policies, and procedures without prior notice.